Prophetic visions in near-death experiences. Especially Howard Storm's visions.

Prophetic visions in near-death experiences are rare, but when they happen, they usually follow a similar pattern: predicting natural disasters and cataclysms followed by a new earth with a golden age, a form of "millennial kingdom" if you like (see also the excerpt below from David Sunfellow's book, the beginning of chapter 89). Professor of psychology Kenneth Ring (b. 1935) has researched this topic. Kevin Williams write the following about him and his research:

"NDE researcher Dr. Kenneth Ring discovered how many near-death experiences he was studying foretell future Earth changes such as earthquakes, volcanoes, a pole shift, strange weather patterns, droughts, famines, tidal waves and a new social order followed by a golden age."

(From the article "Edgar Cayce Prophecies: Past, Present and Future" by Kevin Williams, posted in September 24, 2019 on www.near-death.com)

You can also read Kenneth Ring's seminal work on the near-death experience "Heading Toward Omega: in search of the meaning of the near-death experience" from 1984, for more detailed information on his research on prophetic visions in near-death experiences. It is translated to Swedish and is on the bookshelves of the main municipal library in Stockholm (Stadsbiblioteket), you can find it here.

Howard Storm's prophetic visions in his near-death experience 1985 are classic. He says that he received information that civilization will collapse before Jesus returns (see the article "Economic collapse of USA and the world predicted by Howard Storm in 1985", September 28, 2008), the electric grid will fail, only a remnant of humanity will survive the collapse, and he says that there will be almost no technology in the future. His prophecies seem to me as being the most realistic ones of all those I have read. There is much mumbo-jumbo in this area, as always when we research the Spirit World and visions.

Kevin Williams writes in the article "The Future and the Near-Death Experience", from 22 September 2019, the following in the seventh chapter of the article (read the whole chapter, it is fantastic):

"Prophecies from such sources as NDEs, the Bible, the Dead Sea Scrolls, Nostradamus, and psychic phenomena, all agree that a new era of peace on earth will come after the foreseen natural disasters purify the earth from the sins of modern civilization. The following information are some of the positive prophecies of the future that are foreseen to occur after the catastrophic prophecies take place.

The following prophecies of a future "Golden Age" were given to Howard Storm during his NDE:

1. No nuclear holocaust will occur (but possibly 1 or 2 bombs go off).
2. There will be almost no technology in the future.
3. Children to be the most precious commodity in the world.
4. Raising children is will be the highest priority.
5. A euphoric future with no anxiety, no hatred, no competition, enormous trust and mutual respect.
6. Love and prayer will become a stronger force on earth.
7. People will garden more in the future with almost no effort.
8. Gardens will grow by the power of prayer.
9. Groups of people praying together will be able to control the climate.
10. Animals will live in harmony with people.
11. Wisdom will be more important than knowledge.
12. All knowledge can be accessed through prayer.
13. People will be able to communicate telepathically with everyone else in the world.
14. There will be greater insight into life after death.
15. It will be like the Garden of Eden.
16. God will usher the paradise on earth within the next 200 years.
17. For paradise to come, God will have to restrict some of humanity's free will.
18. This world will resemble some near-death descriptions of heaven.
19. Travel will be instantaneous.
20. The need for clothing and shelter will be eliminated."
End quote.

This is magnificent, if it is true. It also resonates with the descriptions of the New Earth that the Book of Revelation in the Bible contains. Just read Revelation chapter 21 and chapter 22 in order to make a comparison. The prophecies of a new golden age are really universal, they exist in all religions, both old and new. This is really remarkable. And there is here a broad agreement among near-death experiencers. Just read David Sunfellow's article below, where he writes:

"While the specifics and severity of end-of-the-world predictions differ in NDEs, there is one thing they all agree on: a new world is coming; heavenly states of consciousness will eventually manifest in this world."

Read also Craig Lundahl's research in this paper, page 2. In it, he writes:

"(Kenneth) Ring outlined five specific features or elements of the prophetic vision scenario for the future of the earth: geophysical changes, meteorological changes, supply and economic breakdowns, nuclear war, and a new era of human history characterized by universal love and world peace."

If these promises only had come from the holy scriptures of the big religions, I would maybe not believe in them, but now they are corroborated by visions and near-death experiences, corroborated by the Spirit World, and researched by many scientists. This is a very good thing to know, and it strengthens one's faith very much. Let us remember this in the coming collapse of civilization, in the midst of suffering, that the promises of God are corroborated in many wonderful ways.

Yet I believe that the Millennial Kingdom will not be the final stage of humanity. The Millennial Kingdom will take place in the Spirit World (mark Howard Storm's words that "Travel will be instantaneous" and "This world will resemble some near-death descriptions of heaven"), but the Spirit World or the Astral World is only a temporary solution created by God for judgment purposes. The time comes when all of creation will die yet another time and resurrect to the Resurrection World, which is a material world with a heavenly reincarnation cycle, where we are born and die. I have written about this before on this blog. Nature on this earth is a faint mirror of this world, which will be more natural than nature on earth, and where we are not able to fly around by thought, we will be restricted to heavenly natural laws (we will manage astral travel, though, when we sleep). This is an even more glorious world, because heavenly limits are better than the ability to do whatever we want. It feels natural, and is a security.

I also recommend you to read this excerpt from David Sunfellow's book, The Purpose of Life as Revealed by Near-Death Experiences from Around the World (2016/2019):

Chapter 89

How To Still Storms & Walk On Water

By David Sunfellow

"While few in number, some near-death experiencers are shown apocalyptic visions of the future. Earthquakes and tsunamis rage across the Earth. Governments and civilizations collapse. Vast numbers of plants, animals, and people die. Other near-death experiencers are shown that the worst is behind us. We are now on a path where everything is going to get better and better.

While the specifics and severity of end-of-the-world predictions differ in NDEs, there is one thing they all agree on: a new world is coming; heavenly states of consciousness will eventually manifest in this world.

What can we do to help?

The deepest, most profound near-death experiences tend to be lighthearted and full of hope. There is a playfulness and sense of humor to these NDEs. Instead of raining down fire and brimstone, these NDEs are full of laughter, merriment, and gentle admonitions to lighten up and not take life so seriously.

How can these NDEs be so cheerful when so many apocalyptic possibilities are knocking on our collective door? One answer is that the higher realms know the world is a dream, no one is really hurt or lost, and everything is unfolding as it should.

Higher states of consciousness also know that everything works out in the end, one way or another.

In other words, the challenges we face in this world are similar to the challenges we face in dreams. After a dream has run its course, we wake up, unscathed. And so do all of our dreaming friends. Even nightmares that are hyper-real and super scary come and go.

Here's the point: whether the world follows a rough path to higher states of consciousness, or a gentle one, we can help by staying connected to the parts of ourselves that know everything is OK.

Instead of getting caught up in the drama of life and injecting more fear, instability, and despair into the collective consciousness of the planet, we can train ourselves to stay calm and connected.

And one more thing.

It's the deep places that produce miracles. And healings. And solutions to complicated and bewitching problems. So staying calm and collected is not simply a way to maintain inner peace, it's also a way to find practical solutions to life's many challenges.

So whatever is happening in your personal life, or in the world at large, I encourage you to go deeper and higher. Engage life, full on, but don't take things too seriously. Be cheerful and light hearted. Joke and laugh. Be a force of nature that not only stops fear in its tracks, but turns the tide and lifts others to higher ground.

This book can help. When negative influences take you hostage and you feel yourself slipping into despair, reach for this little book. It will help you reconnect with the high, calm, healing places within."

Let me end with Angie Fenimore's revelation in her NDE, quoted by Craig Lundahl in the same paper above:

"To illustrate prophetic revelations, I will cite two cases. The first case is that of the NDEr Angie Fenimore, who had a near-death experience on January 8, 1991. She gave the following account:

*I could feel the urgency in the spirits who were scurrying about to do the work of God. I was then told that we are in the final moments before the Savior will return to the earth.... I was not told when it would happen, but I understood that the earth is being prepared for the Second Coming of Christ. (Fenimore, 1995, pp. 145-146) "

More on prophetic visions in near-death experiences

Prophetic visions in NDE:s (Near Death-Experiences) is a well researched area, with often the same results. Earth and its inhabitants will be purified by catastrophes, and enter a Golden Age, most of the visions tell. This is one of the most exciting areas of study I know of. How can so many visions agree? And even agree with the Bible and the holy scriptures of all known religions? This is something universal. It is written in our blood, in our very bones. It have to go that way. It just have to. Instantly when we come to believe in a Higher World, a Spirit World, a Heaven, we also have to believe this. It is the only logical conclusion. What would the alternative be, really? Civilization is unsustainable. And we need to be saved. As a humanity. And the only hope of salvation nowadays is from the Spirit World.

But now forward to some of the research in this area:

This article by the in NDE-studies very well versed Kevin R. Williams (he operates probably the largest and most wellknown webpage in the area) is a really thorough overview of the matter (I have referred to it before on this blog). In the introduction he says the following:

"1. Introduction to NDE Prophetic Revelations

Many people were given visions of the future during their near-death experience (NDE). Download an ebook from Robert and Suzanne Mays '2019 study presentation titled, "Prophetic Visions In Near-Death Experiences: Warnings For Our Times." Generally, these visions foretell a future of catastrophic natural disasters and social upheaval leading to a new era of global peace and enlightenment. Some of these prophecies did not occur when they were foretold to occur; and there are good reasons for this which will be explained. Many of these apocalyptic visions have been predicted to occur within the next few decades. Remarkably, these visions of the future agree with prophecies of the Bible, Edgar Cayce, Nostradamus, and the Virgin Mary visitations of Fatima, Garabandal, Medjugorje and Zeitoun."

Psychology professor and NDE-research pioneer Kenneth Ring is maybe the giant in this research field of prophetic near death-experiences.

One of the other pioneers of NDE research, professor Craig Lundahl* writes in this paper, page 2, about Ring's research in the area the following:

"(Kenneth) Ring (1) outlined five specific features or elements of the prophetic vision scenario for the future of the earth: geophysical changes, meteorological changes, supply and economic breakdowns, nuclear war, and a new era of human history characterized by universal love and world peace."

* Dr. Craig Lundahl is chairman emeritus of the Department of Social Sciences and emeritus professor at Western New Mexico University. He wrote a classic NDE book entitled, The Eternal Journey (1997) together with Dr. Harold Widdison. He also wrote A Collection of Near-Death Research Readings (1982).

See also this paper by Dr. Craig Lundahl:

"Parallels Between Near-Death Experience Prophetic Visions and Prophecies from the Bible and Mormon Holy Writ"

- C. R. Lundahl
- Published 1 September 1999
- Geology
- Journal of Near-Death Studies

The abstract of the paper: "In 1982, Kenneth Ring identified a phenomenon where some near-death experiencers were permitted to see a picture of the Earth's future as a "prophetic vision" or PV. In his study of the PV, Ring identified five elements of the PV for the future of the Earth as geophysical changes, meteorological changes, supply and economic breakdowns, nuclear war, and a new era of love and world peace. He also mentioned two other features, the death of many and a time frame for the elements. A comparison of the events of near-death experience prophetic visions of the Earth's future and prophecies from the Bible and the Mormons' Doctrine and Covenants shows nearly complete agreement. These catastrophic events are prophesied to occur on the Earth into the 21st century and to culminate with a new world of peace that is constituted of good people."

Tom Horns incredible vision 2019, the asteroid Apophis, the Wormwood prophecy and rap- ture 2025.

The more I read about the prophecies concerning a rap-ture 2025 (here I have collected stuff about it), the more exciting it becomes.

In 2019 author Tom Horn had this vision about the asteroid Apophis, told in this article on SkyWatchTV 12.1.2023 :

"..one night I had gone to bed, not anticipating anything unusual, when, at around 2 o'clock the next morning, I "awoke" in a hyperdimensional reality and saw in the heavens above me what looked like a horned, fiery serpent, hundreds of feet wide, plunging past the stars toward earth at an incomprehensible speed. This terrifying monster seemed to be swimming across the sky, past the planets, as it descended toward Earth.

Just then, my point of view shifted, and I was lifted above the massive object only to realize it was not a dragon after all, but rather a very large rock, and the way it was rolling through space it caused the light of the sun to glide over its contours, giving it the appearance of something undulating through space like a living thing.

The next thing I knew, I was on a tall hill or mountain somewhere, surrounded by thousands of people. We were running, terrified, and people were screaming for God to deliver us from the menace barreling through the sky toward this planet.

Moments later, I heard a deafening sound. It was as if the earth was splitting apart, the ground beneath our feet jerking violently, knocking us to the soil where we bounced viciously against the rocks, desperately reaching out for anything we could cling onto for stability. Somehow, I knew an asteroid had plunged into the Pacific Ocean, its massive form sending a sequence of tsunamis hundreds of feet into the air.

As I glanced over my shoulder, I could see an overwhelming wall of water coming up over the hillside behind us. I perceived we wouldn't be able to escape.

But then, it was as if two very large hands slid under my arms, lifting me high into the sky, where, looking down, I watched in shock as people everywhere were swept away by astonishingly large waves slamming into coastal terrains as far as I could see. The atmosphere was simultaneously infused with scorched particles of aerosol and vapor as a blistering culmination of moisture and extreme heat subsequently combusted into a series of high-velocity hurricanes. Tornadoes, volcanoes, and earthquakes seemed to be going off like fireworks with what were likely some of the eleven deadliest volcanoes on earth—those of the Cascadia region of the United States—being triggered like dominos, releasing so much debris into the sky that, for about a week, darkness covered the heavens worldwide as the entire landscape was pounded by hurricanes and atmospheric annihilation circulating within the jet stream. By the time days later when the waters finally settled, storms subsided and the sky grew clear, much of life on earth was dead.

When I awoke, I nearly fell out of bed.

Grabbing for pen and paper to record what I had seen; I was unexpectedly interrupted by what seemed like an audible voice. It could have just been in my head, but it seemed spoken to me. The voice uttered a single word—Apophis."

This vision was all the more incredible as Tom Horn had a near-death experience 2003 where he was shown the future of the earth on a screen, and where he also saw Apophis hitting the earth. But he forgot everything he had seen in that experience, and remembered it only in the vision 2019, where he visited the same place in the Spirit World again.

After Horn's vision 2019 he researched everything he could find about Apophis, and found that an asteroid which would come near earth on April 13, 2029 (observe that it is a Friday, i.e. Friday the 13th!, a famous date of unluck in folklore and superstition), was discovered 2004 by NASA, and named Apophis, which was the name of an ancient Egyptian god of chaos and enemy of light. He then studied the book of Revelation, and found that Apophis could represent the Wormwood asteroid of Revelation chapter 8. He then found that "initial observations indicated a probability up to 2.7% that it would hit Earth on April 13, 2029. Additional observations provided improved predictions that eliminated the possibility of an impact on Earth in 2029." (Wikipedia). But were NASA right here? After much research Horn came to the conclusion that NASA wanted to hide something here, that they were involved in a cover-up, he heard from his friend who worked at NASA that he experienced some threats from the government because of Tom Horn quoting him in his book "The Wormwood prophecy"*.

See this (from April 2020), this and this youtubevideo for deeper study. Tom Horn came to the conclusion that, based on the available science (among others the agnostic astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson says that we cannot be sure about the trajectory of Apophis, see a quote from him in this article) and his vision 2019, Apophis will probably hit the earth in 2029.

But the whole thing gets baffling when we hear Tom Horn explain how this asteroid connects to wellknown prophecies about the Rapture and the Second Coming. You see, many prophecy experts believe that the "Wormwood prophecy" will place itself in the middle of the Great Tribulation (and it feels like we are approaching such one soon). And usually these experts think, based on Bible prophecies, that the Tribulation will last for seven years, and then the visible Second Coming of Jesus will happen. Well, when we calculate the date three and a half year before April 13, 2029, we come to exactly October 13, 2025, which is in the middle of the Jewish Feast of the Tabernacles or Sukkot (see this article for deeper study). Many prophecy experts see the Feast of the Tabernacles as symbolizing the Second Coming of Christ, yes, that it will happen on this feast. See this article for deeper study.

What are the chances for this, I ask?

But even more thrilling, there are prophecies in the Dead Sea Scrolls of the Essenes at the time of Jesus, which confirm these prophecies about the Second Coming and the year 2025 as pivotal. The Essenes thought that the final Jubilee would begin in 2025 and end in 2075, based on a thinking that the history of man will be 6000 years, or 120 Jubilees (hundred and twenty 50 year periods).

Author and filmmaker Josh Peck has researched this area thoroughly, and written a thick book about it (557 pages!), called "The Lost Prophecies of Qumran: 2025 and the Final Age of Man" (2021). Here is an interview with Peck about the book.

I have put my hopes in many doomsday dates before which have failed, and I hope for several of them in the future, but it seems to me that never has a doomsday date been more probable, likely and well corroborated and researched than the 2025 rapture date, especially when we consider this youtube film from 2021, where an Af-roamerican woman tells about a vision of Jesus where Jesus said his return would be in 2025. The only objection that I have to this date is that the rapture theology is somewhat uncertain. Many scholars say it's not biblical.

But I don't believe in it, just hope for it. Reality is so strange, that it might as well be true. Or, Jesus could, by his decision, make it true, because He loves to fulfil prophecies.

Could Apophis be the "Sign of the Son of Man" in Matt. 24:30?:

"Then will appear the sign of the Son of Man in heaven. And then all the peoples of the earth will mourn when they see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven, with power and great glory."

The following says something about Tom Horn's experiences and reputation as a "prophet" (although he doesn't label himself so): "On several occasions in his life Tom has had what he calls "supernatural experiences," in which God told him things that would take place. For instance, in 2010, Tom says God told him that Pope Benedict would resign in April, 2012, which came to pass (though it wasn't official until February, 2013)." (from this article)

This is also interesting: October 13, 2025 is also the day when the Jews celebrate God delivering them from the ancient Egyptian gods, among them also Apophis!" (source: Tom Horn in a youtube video)

Add to this the predicted super solar storm of 2025, which could be devastating: Is the World Ready? — 2025 Solar Storm. According to a study, the world may face a space-air disaster that occurs every 100 years in the coming years, and possibly in July of 2025., by Sarp

 “IS THERE A COVERUP?

"Yes," Tom says without hesitation. He bases his position on conversations with a friend at NASA and information gathered by physicist Nathan Myhrvold, both of whom believe that the data support the outcome that Apophis will impact Earth. NASA's website states that they expect a "near miss" of Apophis on April 13, 2029, with the asteroid remaining 18,000 miles away. Having talked with two astronomers at NASA, Tom says they called that statement the agency's official word, but not reality. They told him their study of the asteroid, its gravitational field, etc. indicate something so massive that it could neither miss Earth, nor be destroyed or mitigated. The impact of something that large, he says, would unleash a blast the equivalent of a billion tons of TNT (greater than 65,000 bombs the size of those dropped on Nagasaki and Hiroshima during WWII). Tom says his NASA friend was originally quoted in The Wormwood Prophecy until someone at the agency learned of it, threatened him, and demanded he have the quote removed. In order to avoid alarming the public and stirring up chaos, Tom says the space agencies are keeping the truth quiet, while working to mitigate the asteroid behind the scenes. He refers to President Trump's new space force program as one evidence of the effort to mitigate the asteroid." (from this article)

Near-death experienter Howard Storm is a universalist

The noted near-death experienter, Reverend Howard Storm is a universalist *. That's what I get from this youtube interview with him: Annihilationism or Universalism?? Answers from Near Death Experiences | Q&A with Howard Storm" from 2021.

The discovery made me very happy, because I have a strong trauma of having a mental breakdown (it was the fall of 2011) from reading about his horrible near-death experience of going to hell and then being rescued from there by God. That he, of all near-death experiencers, became a universalist is just too sweet. It should be mentioned that universalism among NDEs is very common. In my book "Löftenas löfte. Alltings slutliga återupprättelse" (The Promise of Promises, or the Final Restoration of Everything)", Kap. 9: Nära döden-upplevelsen överlag och apokatastasis (Chap. 9: Near-death experience overall and apokatastasis), I have the following text:

"Kevin Williams, webmaster of the #1 NDE website on Google and Yahoo (www.near-death.com) is a committed universalist. In his book, Nothing Better Than Death, he states that:

"Many Christians today cannot accept the NDE because it generally affirms Universal Salvation." "

Kevin Williams is very learned in the field, he has made near-death experience research his life's work, his life's task. Hearing him say this makes my ears prick up.

I too can confirm what Williams said, from all the near death experiences I've read. Perhaps the three most famous NDE:ers out there, Betty J. Eadie, Anita Moorjani, and Dannion Brinkley, are all universalists.

The fact that near-death experiencers are often universalists means a lot to me.

Howard Storm is also famous, but maybe not as famous as the ones I mentioned. His universalism is not of the ordinary kind, it is original. It is similar to the kind of universalism I harbored a couple of years ago, which is that the most evil cannot be saved like the rest of us, they are too evil for that, but they lose their life, their person, and become something else, they are consumed by the fire of God's love so that their person is annihilated, and only the little spark of God in them lives on, and returns to God, by being transformed. Howard Storm doesn't say that, but I used to mean that the most evil become something else, animals, insects, bacteria, atoms, are saved in the micro-life.

I have now completely abandoned this opinion, because I believe that it is not in full agreement with the overall message of the Bible on these issues, and because it detracts from the omnipotence of God's love, which surpasses all understanding. But I still think that Storm's opinion is a completely respectable opinion, which is not cruel (which both annihilationism and the traditional doctrine of hell are), since it is not associated with suffering that you lose your person and become something else (you do not experience this yourself, in a way, because you lose your memories), but it only means that you lose your salary, to be human for eternity. One could easily interpret Paul in accordance with Howard Storm, when Paul says: "...but if his work is burned up, he will lose his salary. He himself, however, will be saved, but as through fire." (1 Cor. 3:15)

But, as I said, it does not rhyme with the rest of the Bible, which says that "Therefore God has also exalted him above all and given him the name that is above every name, so that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those who are in heaven, and those on earth, and those under the earth, and that every tongue may confess, to the glory of God the Father, that Jesus Christ is Lord." (Phil. 2:9-11)

Mark: "to the glory of God the Father". His full glory and the total restoration of all things require that all will be saved with their personalities intact. Each human soul is worth an infinite amount, and it would be an eternal loss to God and the loved ones of the lost person if she disappeared forever.

* one who believes in the final salvation of all
